LESSON ACTIVITIES
1. Have students create a tri-tab foldable by folding a paper in half long ways (hot dog style) and then divide the top layer into three tabs by making two cuts in the top layer. These three tabs represent the three branches of government. This will allow the students to put the vocabulary word on top. On the inside they place a dictionary definition of the term and also a definition using their own words. Students may include drawings to illustrate the term.

Activities 2-10 are to be divided up with each student completing at least two activities depending on learning style.

2. Have one group of students look at the article “Constitutional Convention of 1861-1863” at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/articles/1566. Encourage them to pay close attention to what the constitutional convention was supposed to accomplish. Then follow the link at the bottom of the page and read the constitution. They will need to make a list of 12 important facts about the constitution and what it accomplished.

3. Have another group of students look at the article “Constitutional Convention of 1872” at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/articles/1570. Encourage them to pay close attention to what the constitutional convention was supposed to accomplish. Then follow the link at the bottom of the page and read the constitution. They will need to make a list of 12 important facts about the constitution and what it accomplished.

4. Have the students look at the picture of Waitman T. Willey at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/media/4287 and read accompanying text. Students may complete an activity called “Climb Inside a Head.” Have them write a monologue of their thoughts as if they could climb inside Willey’s head at the exact moment the picture was taken.

5. Have students read the article “Judicial Branch” at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/articles/1073 and learn how it expanded with the creation of the second constitution.

6. Have students read the article “Executive Branch” at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/articles/2218 and learn how it expanded with the second constitution.

7. Have students read the article “Legislature” at http://www.wvencyclopedia.org/articles/1348 and learn how the legislative branch expanded with the second constitution.

8. Have students create a postal stamp using an 8 ½-by-11 sheet of blank paper depicting one important fact that the student learned throughout the unit.

9. For musically inclined students: Use the schoolhouse rock song “Conjunction Junction What’s Your Function” and change it to “Constitution, Constitution What’s Your Function.” List three things about each constitution, then have students sing their song.

10. Have each student create a dodecahedron with the graphic included with this lesson that lists one fact about the differences in the two constitutions on each face.

11. As an exit activity, have each student write a paragraph answering this question: If you could create a new constitution, what changes would you make and what significance would they have on today’s society?
